The Future of Global Organizing (Progress in International Business Research) By Alain Verbeke

This latest volume of Progress in International Business Research explores novel ways in which international business is organized. Contributions advance our understanding and stretch our thinking about new organizational and geographic structures in MNCs, and other organizational forms across borders and geographies. Authors ask challenging questions: will the traditional MNC as we know it be replaced by other dominant designs, and what new forms of global organizing can we expect in the future? What do contemporary digital and technological developments, e.g. social media, virtual worlds, and cloud services, imply for the international organization of work, communication, and management practices?

Editorial Review

Review

Editors Van Tulder, Verbeke, and Drogendijk present readers with a collection of academic essays regarding the future of global organizing in the face of pressures from regionalism and globalization. The selections that make up the main body of the text come from a diverse group of international experts and cover the general organizational challenges Multinational Enterprises, or MNEs are facing, changing international hierarchies, new organizational forms, and the reorganization of the value chain. Rob Van Tulder is a faculty member of Erasmus University in the Netherlands. Alain Verbeke is a faculty member of the University of Calgary in Canada, the University of Brussels in Belgium, and the university of Reading in the UK. Rian Drogendijk is a faculty member of the University of Groningen in the Netherlands and Uppsala University in Sweden.
