Editorial Review

Review

"The text has a wide appeal and range of knowledge that would benefit both Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal teachers, students and teacher candidates, as well as specialist scientists or generalists. The book raises the awareness of a gap in literature regarding an understanding of the diverse worldviews of Indigenous peoples ...

Dr. Marie Battiste

Director, Aboriginal Education Research Centre, University of Saskatchewan

"The words from this book will be cited repeatedly and gratefully by countless people, as they walk between two worlds, crossing cultural bridges and attempting to create a balanced and harmonious understanding of the world we live in."

President, Indigenous Education Institute, Friday Harbor, WA; Adjunct Professor, Department of Physics and Astronomy, University of Northern Arizona, Flagstaff, Arizona

"I found this book fascinating. It offered me a clear summary of a wide corpus of work framing scientific and Indigenous ways of knowing I will definitely use the publication with my pre-service and in-service teachers in science and technology education and Education for Sustainable Development classes."

Dr. Steve Alsop

Faculty of Education, York University, Toronto, Ontario

"I regard this book as seminal in helping people to not only recognize the need to build cultural bridges but to also provide some ways of doing this."

Pauline Waiti

Manager, Maori and Pasifika Education Publications Team, Learning Media Ltd., Wellington, New Zealand

Dominic Loflin:

As a university student exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher questioned them to go to the library or even make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just tiny students that has reading's heart and soul or real their passion. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to go to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading really. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring as well as can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is to become complicated. Book is very important to suit your needs. As we know that on this period of time, many ways to get whatever we wish. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. So , this Bridging Cultures: Indigenous and Scientific Ways of Knowing Nature can make you really feel more interested to read.
